

Biography for Dr Joy Mighty

Dr Joy Mighty is a Senior University Administrator and Professor at Carleton University in Ottawa, Canada. From 2012 to 2018, Dr Mighty served as the Associate Vice-President (Teaching and Learning) and held a joint appointment as a Full Professor in the Sprott School of Business and the Pauline Jewett Institute of Women's and Gender Studies in the Faculty of Arts and Social Sciences. Currently on one year's Administrative Leave, upon her return to Carleton in July 2019, Dr Mighty will assume the position of Senior Scholar for Innovation in Teaching and Learning.

Dr Mighty previously served as the Director of the Centre for Teaching and Learning at Queen's University and as a Full Professor in the Queen's School of Business. Prior to her work at Queen's, she was the coordinator of the Teaching and Learning Centre and a professor in the Faculty of Business Administration at the University of New Brunswick.

Born in Georgetown Guyana, Dr Mighty has an eclectic academic background and a wealth of experience as an administrator, teacher, educational developer, researcher and consultant. She obtained her B.A. (English Honours), Post-Graduate Diploma in Education, M.A. in Education and Post-Graduate Diploma in Management Studies from the University of the West Indies in Jamaica. She earned her MBA from Howard University in Washington, D.C., and her Ph.D. in Organizational Behaviour from the Schulich School of Business at York University in Toronto. She is also a Past-President of the Society for Teaching and Learning in Higher Education, was the inaugural chair of the Educational Developers Caucus, and served as Canada's representative on the Council of the International Consortium for Educational Development.

Dr Mighty has received awards for excellence in teaching, research, and extraordinary service and professional leadership. Her special interests are organizational development and change, as well as equity, diversity and the scholarship of teaching and learning. She has provided consulting services to private, public and not-for-profit organizations in Canada, the Caribbean, China, England, Germany, Japan, Saudi Arabia, South Africa, and the USA. A frequently sought keynote speaker at regional, national, and international conferences, she has also published in various conference proceedings, journals and books, and is the co-editor of the highly acclaimed 2010 publication Taking Stock: Research on Teaching and Learning in Higher Education.